AUGUST EDITION

Principal's Note

Dear Readers,

Every edition of our school e-magazine is a reflection of our journey—a journey filled with learning, creativity, achievements, and memorable experiences.

August was a month of celebration and growth. Our students enthusiastically participated in the Inter-House Dance Competition, bringing alive the rich culture, traditions, and spirit of India through their performances.

Our participation in the Inter-Branch Sports and Games Competitions was another proud moment. Winning four medals marked a promising beginning. Each medal represents hard work, determination, teamwork, and the courage to compete.

From CCA activities and assemblies to Independence Day, National Sports Day, Raksha Bandhan, Yellow Day, field trips, and inter-school events, our students showed confidence, teamwork, and sportsmanship.

As you turn the pages of this edition, let us celebrate not only our achievements but also the effort, courage, and learning behind them.

May our children continue to dream big, learn with joy, embrace every challenge, and strive for excellence.

Let every experience be a lesson, every challenge an opportunity, and every achievement a step towards greater success.

With warm regards,

Mr.G.Kishore Reddy

Assembly on READING

Reading a book—whether it is a storybook, comic book, academic book, or any other kind of book—is one of the best ways to gain knowledge and broaden our understanding. Every book teaches us something new, introduces us to different ideas, improves our vocabulary, strengthens our imagination and thinking skills, and helps us see the world from different perspectives. Books are not just pages filled with words; they are treasures of knowledge, experiences, and ideas waiting to be discovered. 📚✨

"ONE NATION, MANY COLOURS: THE SPIRIT OF UNITY"

My India My Pride

– by Liya Salli

India is a land of diversity, unity, rich culture, and great traditions. I feel proud to be an Indian because our country has a unique identity and a beautiful history. People in India speak different languages, follow different religions, and celebrate many festivals, yet we live together as one nation.

I am proud of the brave freedom fighters who sacrificed their lives for our country's independence. Their courage and determination remind us that freedom comes with great responsibility. I am also proud of India's achievements in science, technology, sports, education and space exploration. Our scientists, soldiers, doctors, teachers, farmers, and athletes work hard to make our country stronger and better.

India is not just a country where I was born; it is my identity and heart. I am proud to be an Indian.

India's colorful festivals, traditional dances, music, food, clothes, and monuments show how rich our culture is. I especially admire the way Indians come together during festivals and difficult times. Our motto "Unity in Diversity" truly represents the spirit of the nation.

Being an Indian also means having responsibility to respect others, follow rules, keep our surroundings clean, protecting nature, helping those in need. As a student I can contribute by studying well, being kind and becoming responsible citizen.

India is a land of diversity, unity, rich culture, and great traditions. I feel proud to be an Indian because our country has a unique identity and a beautiful history. People in India speak different languages, follow different religions, and celebrate many festivals, yet we live together as one nation.

From Tradition to Technology

India's Journey from Heritage to Innovation

India is a land of rich and ancient heritage. Our festivals, languages and culture are beautifully reflected. Festivals like Diwali, Holi, and classical dances like Bharatanatyam and Kathak, carnatic songs and many more traditions make our India unique.

Our ancestors also gave importance to Yoga, Ayurveda, meditation, and beautiful Indian handicrafts, handlooms, paintings and sculptures show creativity and skill passed down. Families continue to celebrate festivals, follow customs and prepare traditional food, keeping these traditions alive.

At the same time, India is also moving rapidly towards modern development. Science, digital technology and AI have become an important part of our daily life. Digital payments, online learning, smartphones and modern transportation have made life easier.

Technology can also help us protect our heritage. Old manuscripts, paintings and historical monuments can be digitally preserved. Traditional artists can use the internet to share their work with the people around the world. In this way technology can help our traditions reach future generations.

India does not have to choose between tradition and technology. We can respect the wisdom of our past while welcoming the ideas of the future. Our traditions give us our identity, while innovations help us move forward.

"Preserve the Roots, Embrace the Future."

INDIA OF 2047

AI

ROOTS. VS RISE.

Imagine waking up on 15 August 2047, exactly 100 years after India became independent. The tricolour flies proudly, welcoming a nation that has transformed its dreams into reality.

By 2047, India will merge as a global beacon of knowledge, prosperity and peace. Our cities will be sustainable and green, powered by renewable energy and cutting-edge technology. Education will become the cornerstone of a visionary India, reaching every child through AI and digital learning, inspiring young minds to discover and innovate.

India has travelled freedom to progress, from tradition to technology, and from dreams to possibilities. The journey from 1947 to 2047 will not be the end of our story, but the beginning of a greater chapter.

My Tricolour of dreams

B·HARSHITH
V

The Indian flag is more than just three beautiful colours. Each colour inspires to dream of a better me and a better India.

Saffron - The colour of Courage

Saffron reminds me to be brave, confident and ready to face challenges. Courage does not mean that we are never afraid, it means we keep trying even when are afraid.

Example :- When i am scared of participating in a competition or trying something new, I can show courage by taking the first step and believing in myself.

"Be brave enough to dream, and strong enough to make it happen."

White - The colour of peace

White represents peace and harmony. I dream of a world where people are kind to one another, respect differences forgive mistakes, and solve problems peacefully.

Example :- If two friends have an argument, instead of fighting, they can listen to each other, say sorry, and become friends again.

"Peace begins with a smile and a kind word"

Green - The colour of truth

Green reminds me of nature, progress, and new beginnings. I dream of growing into a responsible person who learns every day, cares for nature and helps my country grow.

Example :- planting trees, saving water, keeping our surroundings clean, and learning new skills are small steps that can create a big chance.

"Small steps today can create a better tomorrow"

I want to be brave like saffron, peaceful like white, and always growing like green. With courage in my heart, peace in my mind, and hope for tomorrow, My dreams have many colours, but they all lead to one beautiful future.

INDIA

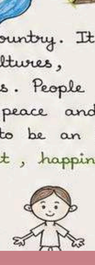

Through the Eyes of a child

India is my country,
So big and so bright,
with diversity,
unity is our might.
From mountains high
To oceans wide,
we all live together
with love and pride.
I love my India,
My motherland
Jai Hind!
Vande mataram!

India is a beautiful country. It is a full of different languages, cultures, festivals and traditions. People here live together in peace and harmony. I feel proud to be an Indian. To me, India means unity, respect, happiness and hope.

Raksha Bandhan is a beautiful celebration of the precious bond between brothers and sisters. It is not just about tying a Rakhi; it is about expressing love, care, respect, and the promise to always stand by each other. Through every laugh, every little fight, and every memorable moment, siblings create a bond that grows stronger with time. On this special day, we celebrate the beautiful connection that makes childhood sweeter and life more meaningful. A Rakhi is a tiny thread, but the love and emotions it carries are priceless. 💖🎀

FIELD TRIP TO THE SALAR JUNG MUSEUM

A Journey Through History at Salar Jung Museum

Our Grade 4, 5 and 6 children had an enriching and memorable visit to the Salar Jung Museum. As they explored its fascinating galleries, they observed magnificent sculptures, ancient artefacts, beautiful paintings, royal furniture, coins, manuscripts, weapons and many other treasures from different periods and cultures. Each exhibit opened a window into the past and helped them understand how people lived, created, and preserved their heritage. The visit was not just a museum tour—it was a journey through history that inspired curiosity, appreciation for art and culture, and a deeper respect for our rich heritage. 📚✨
